Everyday Connections, Lasting Impact

Simple ways to build relationships and strengthen our communities

Relationships are built through everyday moments—a conversation, a check-in, an invitation, a shared experience, or simply making someone feel welcome.

Join us during Social Connection Awareness Week as we explore how building relationships and creating opportunities for connection can strengthen individuals, organizations, and communities.

We'll explore how we can build relationships as individuals, how organizations can create opportunities for connection, and how stronger relationships can help create more connected communities.

Join us to learn, share ideas, and discover simple ways we can all build relationships and create lasting impacts.
